London, March 16.—Baron Hayashi makes public the following statement: "Our advanced troops are pressing against the enemy everywhere. We occupied Tieling at 12:20 on Thursday morning." A St. Petersburg dispatch reported Tie pass was evacuated by Kuropatkin's army.

St. Petersburg, News.
St. Petersburg, March 16.—A council of war has decided General Gripenberg's action during the fighting on the Shalke river as perfectly justifiable. He was accused by Kuropatkin of exceeding his orders in pushing beyond Sandepa, becoming involved in an engagement in which he lost heavily. Gripenberg claimed his loss was due to the failure of Kuropatkin supporting him.

CIGARETTE BILL TO PASS THE SENATE VERY SOON

Stringent Anti-Cigarette Measure Has Been Reported On Favorably By The Committee.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., March 16.—Evans anti-cigarette bill was reported by the senate committee on state affairs today in favor of the concurrence. Senator Smith dissenting. This practically insures the enactment at this session of the drastic measure which prohibits the sale, gift or importation of cigarettes, cigarette-paper or cigarette-tobacco in Wisconsin and even prohibits persons having such things in their possession. The barbers' license repeal bills were reported in Berlin, March 16.—The Tageblatt says the czar has ordered Kuropatkin to transfer his command to Linevitch, pending the arrival of Grand Duke Nicholas Ievitch.

Makes Last Stand.
St. Petersburg, March 16.—Kuropatkin's once great army is making its last stand at Tie pass, and fighting has already begun at Fan river, thirteen miles south of Tie pass, and which is a part of the outer defenses of that place.

Gen. Kuropatkin. in an official dispatch dated March 14 says: "A fierce Japanese attack on the center of our positions at the Fan river has been repulsed. More than a thousand corpses remain in front of our positions."

All hope that Oyama had abandoned his vigorous pursuit and was giving his tired soldiers an opportunity for rest prior to pushing on, has been dissipated, and the war office anticipates a series of bloody battles similar to those of Liao Yang and Mukden, and fears a like outcome.

Fear Flanking Movement.
In some quarters it is believed that the frontal attack at Fan river was in the nature of a feint, and that a series of flanking movements, the familiar tactics of the Japanese, are again in progress, and that while Kuropatkin is massing his army to repel a direct attack, a huge force is sweeping around to the rear, forming another which may compel surrender.

Nothing is known of the whereabouts of the army of Kawamura, which is supposed to have started days ago with the intention of blocking Kuropatkin's path to Tie pass, and the evidences of a flanking movement lead to the fear that possibly this army, comparatively fresh, may be already in the rear of Kuropatkin, only awaiting the signal from Oyama to sweep down upon the foe.

Besides confronting a tireless enemy, Kuropatkin also faces famine. Newspaper correspondents have already been forced from Tie pass by starvation. This is an indication of the amount of food available for the army, immense quantities of which were destroyed before the fight from Mukden, where practically the entire reserve commissariat had been stored.

Report Russian Victory.
In addition to the official report of the fighting at Fan river come persistent rumors on the bourse of another Russian victory achieved by the command under Linevitch, which is said to have surrounded two divisions under General Nogai which were marching to the west of Tie pass with a view to engaging in a new turning movement.

Kuropatkin's removal as head of the army in the field has been definitely determined upon and the emperor has approved the decision of the council of war to send Grand Duke Nicholas to the front to take command. The czar regards this as the best means of putting a stop to the intrigues and jealousies among the generals of the army both at home and abroad.

A rumor is current, but not credited, that eighty foreigners were murdered at the capture of Mukden. It is believed they may have been captured by the Japanese.

New Army May Go Forward.
It is rumored that an order for another general mobilization is being prepared and that a new army will be forwarded to Manchuria as fast as possible by railway and the steam-both houses for indefinite postponement. A strenuous debate took place in the assembly on the Andrew bill to provide for the ousting of bad city officials from office on petition of the voters. Speaker Lenroot left the chair and championed the cause of Andrew, and Captain Norcross of Janesville led the opposition. He said the proposed measure was unjust and unfair and would result in the multiplication of special elections. He said the proposition was nonsensical. The bill was deterred for a day.

INSPECT FOOD IN BIG CITIES

Dr. Wiley Will Establish Stations At Chicago And Other Places Shortly.

POISON SQUAD READY TO START

Employees Of The Department Will Be Fed On Coal Tar Products And Substitutes For Sugar To Best Effect.

Washington, March 16.—A new food inspection bureau will be established by the government in Chicago about the middle of June and will begin its work about July 1. Similar bureaus will be opened about the same time in Boston, Philadelphia and New Orleans.

The agents of the government in Chicago will analyze samples of all kinds of imported products—wines, canned vegetables, preserves, soups, sausages and other things to eat and drink which come from abroad. The work will be carried on under the food inspection law of the United States, and the working forces will be sent from Washington.

Congress Allows Funds.
At the present time there are only two food inspection bureaus in the country outside of Washington—in New York and San Francisco—apart from the stations established for the inspection and supervision of live stock and live stock products.

It was found that the inspecting forces of San Francisco and New York were not able to examine one-tenth of the food products which Dr. Wiley believed should be examined, and so congress was asked for an additional appropriation, to be applied to the agricultural department fund. The money was forthcoming after a fight with an economically inclined congress.

Kills Pure Food Bill.
There is no question about Dr. Wiley's intention to carry out his battle against what he considers impure foods to the last ditch. The senate killed the pure food law by filibustering and would not allow any outside persons to attempt to save its life. There was any amount of influence brought to bear to prevent the passage of the pure food law, and it was successful. It seems to be the belief of the bureau of chemistry that if it can turn out a few more reports about dyes, boracic acid and sulphate of copper and a few other things which go into food the people will insist that they be fed on jam and peas that are jam and peas, with no beatifiers thrown in.

RAPID GROWTH OF ELECTRIC ROADS

SUMMARY OF BULLETIN PUBLISHED BY CENSUS BUREAU.

IT INTERESTS LOCAL PEOPLE

Effects of Interurban Lines on Communities—Wisconsin May Be Covered

On account of the final realization of a successful electric railroad between Janesville and Rockford, the proposed line from here to Madison, the projected roads to Racine, Milwaukee, Green Bay and other points, the fact that a company was incorporated for $20,000 this past week for the purpose of building in the district of the state of which Vaucluse is the center, all which will finally cover Wisconsin and northern Illinois with a network of interurban electric roads and also the fact that soon the last link in a chain of lines between here and Pittsburgh is to be constructed this summer, great interest is attached to an exhaustive report on street and electric railroads for the year ending June 30, 1932, which is just published by the Bureau of Census and was prepared under the supervision of W. M. Stewart, chief statistician for manufactures. A summary of the most interesting portions of the report is made in the following:

Growth of Street Railways. The first passenger car ever constructed for a street railway was used in New York city in the third decade of the last century. This car was drawn by horses over strap rails laid on stone ties. Improvements introduced during the next forty years were principally in details, but the introduction of the cable system in 1875 was a decided advance in motive power. At the present time, however, the use of the cable car is confined almost exclusively to the cities of Chicago, San Francisco, and Kansas City, while the trolley, which was not used to any great extent prior to 1885, has practically superseded all other systems. In several instances even the steam railways have introduced electric motive power on their lines.

In view of the movement to abolish overhead wires in the large cities, the success of the open conduit system, which has been introduced in the more populous parts of New York and Washington, is worthy of note. In 1932 the number of miles operated by this system in these cities was 264.

Increase in Mileage. During the twelve years from 1890 to 1902 the total single track mileage for street and electric railways increased from 8,123 to 25,577. This increase was due partly to the establishment of new railways, but principally to the extension of the lines already existing.

The mileage of the electric lines increased from 1,832 to 21,907, while there was a decrease for the lines operated by other motive power, the decrease being from 488 to 341 miles for cable lines, from 711 to 170 miles for steam lines, and from 5,662 to 259 miles for lines using animals for their motive power.

In proportion to its area, Massachusetts has much more electric railway mileage than any other state. The average length of track per operating company increased from 10.56 miles to 27.63 miles during the same period.

Cars. There were 60,784 cars of all classes in the United States in 1932. Of this number, 60,290 were passenger cars and 4,944 were cars used for express and other purposes. Of the passenger cars, 32,658 were closed, 24,559 were open, and 3,576 were combination closed and open cars, while 239 were combination passenger and express cars. There were 1,114 cars devoted solely to express, freight, and mail business.

An interesting development in electric railway service is the construction and equipment of sleeping cars for use on long-distance lines in Ohio and Indiana.

The largest number of cars of all classes for any state was reported for New York, the number being 14,040. About half of all the cars in the United States were equipped with heating apparatus, 10,021 being heated by electricity, and 11,133 by stoves, hot water, or other contrivances. Many railways, however, have two sets of cars—one for use in summer, and the other in winter—so that in winter the proportion of the cars in operation equipped with heating apparatus is larger than these statistics would at first glance indicate.

The report shows also that 62,269 cars, or 93.4 per cent of the total number, were lighted. Of these 55,770 were furnished with electric lights.

Competition with Steam Roads. Considerable competition has arisen between the steam roads and the electric interurban lines. While the steam roads have the advantage of greater speed, the frequent service, convenient stops, and low fares of the electric roads, have, in many instances, seriously affected the local traffic of steam railways. Statistics show that in 1932 the street and electric lines of the United States carried more than seven times as many fare passengers as the steam railways. Such a comparison, however, means little, since steam railway journeys are, as a rule, much longer than those on street railways. In 1932 the average distance traveled by passengers on the steam roads was 30.3 miles. No definite average can be given for the distances traveled by passengers on the street lines, since no records have been kept by the street railway companies relative to this point. The receipts from passengers were $392,963,248 for steam railways, and $235,821,548 for street railways.

In 1932 the passenger earnings of the street railways were 94.5 per cent of the total receipts; the remainder of the revenue was derived from the sale of electric current, from freight, mail, and express service, and from advertising and other miscellaneous sources.

Accidents. The accident statistics show that during the year 1,218 persons were killed and 47,425 were injured by street railway lines. Of the total number killed, 265 were passengers, 122 were employees, and 831 were persons on foot or riding in vehicles other than street cars; of the injured, 26,900 were passengers, 3,599 were employees, and 17,040 were other persons. These numbers form only an inappreciable percentage of the total number of passengers carried. One passenger was killed for every 18,015,594 fare passengers carried, and one was injured for every 178,876 passengers. The rate of accident for the wage earners was one killed out of 1,095 and one injured out of 35. This rate is very much lower than the rate for steam railways, for which one employee out of every 491 was killed and one out of every 24 was injured.

The reform in the direction of safety provisions for steam railway crossings has of late years been quite considerable in all large American cities, and has been carried on at an enormous expense, so that, of the steam railway crossings now unprotected, a large proportion are to be found in rural districts. The report states that in 1932 there were 4,481 crossings, of which more than half were protected; 1,967, however, were still without any form of protection, not even being supplied with bells or watchmen.

Consolidation of Street Railway Systems. One of the most important factors in street railway progress has been the combination of formerly independent railways into great systems. Fifteen or twenty years ago most of our large cities were served by several separate animal power railways, and there was usually no competition between these independent companies in the matter of fares. The introduction of mechanical traction, especially electric traction, developed a much stronger tendency toward consolidation than existed before. In most cases the establishment of a unified system made it possible to carry passengers more nearly where they wanted to go and to carry them longer distances; this augmented the traffic of railways to such an extent that it proved decidedly profitable to the companies.

Legislation permitting municipalities to own and operate street railways has recently been enacted in a number of states. There is, however, no instance in the United States of municipal operation of a street railway. The leading instances of municipal ownership and private operation are the subways in Boston and New York.

Effect of the Distribution of Population. It is apparent to everyone that the electric street railway is exerting a most important and beneficial effect on the territorial distribution of urban population, relieving the congestion in the centers of great cities, and permitting growth far out into a belt country which before the days of the trolley was inaccessible territory. Probably the possibilities which this new method of transportation introduces are only beginning to be realized.

This report gives some interesting illustrations of the extent to which the outer areas of cities have increased through the development of the street railway. For instance, the population in Manhattan borough of New York city increased from 1,441,215 in 1890 to 1,850,993 in 1930, or 408,877. Of this increase, 233,556, or considerably more than one-half, took place in that part of the island lying north of Eighty-sixth street, the population in this section having practically doubled during the decade. This district is situated about seven miles from the southern extremity of the city, and the great majority of its breadwinners do business downtown and make daily use of the street railways.

In Bronx borough the population increased from 88,805 to 200,507, the increase being mainly along the street and elevated railway lines. In Brooklyn and Queens boroughs the increase in population was 39 and 76 per cent, respectively, and in each case the advance was mainly in the outlying wards.

Another conspicuous illustration of this influence is furnished by the city of Boston. Of the seven wards lying nearest to the business center of Boston, five showed a decrease in population, while in the outlying wards there was an increase of 93,395 inhabitants, or nearly five-sixths of the total increase of Boston. Moreover, the population of the immediately adjacent cities of Cambridge, Somerville, Chelsea, and Brookline increased much more rapidly than that of the other parts of Boston. A very considerable proportion of the breadwinners, both of the outlying wards and of the adjacent cities, are employed in the business district of Boston and depend upon the electric railways for their transportation.

The change in the distribution of the population of Philadelphia since 1890 has been remarkable. Almost all of the wards in the heart of the city show a decrease in population, while several of the large outlying wards to the west and north of the business center have added greatly to the number of their inhabitants. Chicago, Cleveland, and other cities show this influence of railways in scattering population.

Even in medium-sized cities the street railways encourage the distribution of population and thus reduce the evils of overcrowding and unsanitary surroundings.

Moreover, the electric railway has given a powerful impetus to suburban life, not only for residence but also for manufacturing purposes. The effect of this influence is shown in the increased population of the suburbs of Boston and Philadelphia, two cities whose suburban residents are served largely by electric railways. Other cities showing this influence in a marked degree are St. Louis, Milwaukee, and Cleveland.

Other Sociological Effects. The presence of a rapid and cheap means of passenger transportation permits manufacturing and commercial establishments to be located conveniently and economically and allows the concentration of retail and wholesale trade and office business in specialized centers.

The change thus noted has had a marked influence upon the value of land, and upon rentals and building operations, for every extension of an electric railway line into new territory increases the selling and rental values of the real estate in the vicinity. Thus the clearly marked effect upon the community of the increase of electric railway facilities is to prevent overcrowding and to promote equalization of values.

The effect of street railways in concentrating business is evident, although there are no satisfactory statistics regarding the degree to which the business of cities has become concentrated in narrow areas. It has been estimated, however, that the daily movement of people into the central section of Chicago, by means of the surface street railway alone, is about 225,000, while a still larger proportion of the traffic of the elevated railways is to and from the same business center, which has an area of scarcely more than a square mile. It has also been estimated that the day population of Manhattan Island below Canal street is about half a million greater than the night population. A large proportion of this enormous number of persons are carried to and from this section by street railways.

SPENDS MILLION FOR LOCOMOTIVES Northwestern Said To Have Ordered Sixty; Many for Use in This State.

Despite stories sent out from Chicago that railroads operating in Wisconsin will cease all improvement work in this state and curtail expenditures for new equipment until the fight for a railroad commission is given up, it was announced yesterday that the Chicago & North-Western line will soon add sixty monster locomotives to its motive power. The purchase of the sixty gigantic engines means an outlay of more than $1,000,000. The great expenditure for motive power alone makes the Chicago curtailment story look incredible. In railroad circles it is said that the order for the locomotives was placed shortly before Jan. 1, but for some reason officials of the line decided to give no publicity to the purchase. The first consignment of engines will be delivered about March 25. The others will be delivered between that date and June 1. The new locomotives are of the Prairie and Chicago types. They are being built by the American Locomotive works at a cost of $18,000 a piece. While some of the engines will go to Iowa and Minnesota divisions, a majority of the new lot will be assigned to the Wisconsin divisions. The engines will be used both in freight and passenger service.

STUFFED RICE INTO GROOM'S UMBRELLA Court House Officials and Deputies Took Hand in Wedding Ceremony Yesterday.

County officers and the young lady deputies at the courthouse filled a bridegroom's umbrella with rice while he was participating in the most important ceremony of his life at the courthouse late yesterday afternoon. Whether or not the contracting parties entered into the spirit of the affair and were pleased with the little attentions bestowed, will perhaps never be known unless one or the other chances to write expressing appreciation, which is deemed unlikely. Bride and groom were Katherine Baker and Ezra Oetzel of Malta, Ill. They came here by way of Rockford and secured a special permit to wed from Judge Sale. Justice Charles Reeder was summoned as soon as the necessary preliminaries were completed and the knot was tied in the county judge's private office. The happy couple left immediately thereafter for their home in Malta.

In 1834 he came to Wisconsin and settled on a farm in Rock county, becoming thereby a neighbor of J. F. Willard and the first tutor of the daughter, Francis E. Willard. He moved to Hartford in 1855. Three sons and a daughter, seven grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren survive.

...LINK AND PIN... News for the Railroad Men. Much New Equipment. The Vanderbilt interests are planning to expend $30,000,000 for improvements on their lines west of Buffalo this year.

The directors of the Pennsylvania road have announced their approval of an expenditure during the present year for construction and equipment of more than $30,000,000. Among the strictly new work of the year for which provision is made is that of a permanent water supply for the main line of the Pennsylvania system, especially on the Pittsburgh and middle divisions. Water sheds are to be secured in the vicinity of the company's main line and an extensive system of basins with pipe connections will be constructed at a heavy cost. Provisions also have been made for a large addition to the motive power and equipment of the company.

The Erie is rapidly adding a large number of locomotives and freight cars to its large equipment, it being the intention of the management to supply the line with heavier power and cars of larger capacity. One hundred consolidation engines, weighing 200,000 pounds each, are being built, and thirty-seven of the same type, but weighing 3,000 pounds less, will soon be delivered. The company will experiment exhaustively with the new and so far successful type of passenger engine known as the balanced compound. The Baldwin works are building two of the Vauclain pattern and the American Locomotive Company has one of the Cole type almost completed. Each will weigh in excess of 200,000 pounds. Three of the Pacific style, which has three sets of drivers and two trailing wheels and weighs 230,000 pounds, have also been ordered for passenger service.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

PROPORTION OF ORGANIZED LABOR.

There are no comprehensive trades union statistics in this country. The industrial commission after an investigation estimated the total membership of labor organizations in the United States on July 1, 1901, to be 1,400,000. This was on the basis of a total of 950,000 belonging to the unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, but John Mitchell says that there are more than 2,000,000 wage earners represented by that organization, and Mr. Mitchell is in a position to know the facts. The American Federation represents the great bulk of organized laborers in this country. It is composed of 111 affiliated national unions, 30 state branches, 550 city central unions, and 1,823 local unions. There are, however, outside of the American Federation a number of large labor organizations. The Knights of Labor—once so powerful—still exist with a membership of about 40,000. There are also brotherhoods of locomotive engineers, conductors, trainmen and switchmen, all of whom insist upon remaining independent of the American Federation. It is fair to estimate that the number of organized workmen independent of this main body is not more than 500,000. At a liberal calculation, therefore, the army of organized labor in the United States does not exceed 2,500,000. This is a large number indeed, but it must be remembered that the history of trade unions dates back to 1850, and it would seem as if in that time the attainment of this membership is by no means extraordinary. Moreover, it should be said that by no means all of these 2,500,000 workers can be absolutely depended upon by the trades unions to follow them in carrying out any policy which they may adopt. There is still a lack of concentration in the labor movement. Mr. Mitchell in his book says that the American Federation of Labor has not as yet been able to accomplish all that is possible, owing to the fact that it has not received the entire, enthusiastic and ungrudging support of its affiliated unions, and he deplores the refusal of the railroad brotherhoods to join it. It is instructive to compare this estimate of the number of organized labor with the aggregate of workers in the United States. The last census computed the number of persons engaged in the principal occupations in this country as 29,985,922. Even allowing 2,500,000 of these to belong to the trade unions, it appears that organized labor represents less than 9 per cent of all the workers in the United States. The following is a list of the more important classes of workers having no connection with trade unions:

Agriculturalists	10,483,219
Clergymen, physicians, lawyers, teachers, journalists and other professional men	1,264,737
Bankers and brokers	73,284
Officials of banks and companies	74,246
Agents	241,333
Merchants, wholesale and retail	$35,197
Hotel keepers	54,931
Boarding and lodging house keepers	71,371
Housekeepers and stewards	155,524
Nurses	121,269
Saloon keepers	83,875
Bookkeepers and accountants	255,526
Clerks and copyists	603,731
Commercial travellers	92,536
Livery stable keepers	33,650
Stenographers and typewriters	112,464
Undertakers	16,200
Soldiers, policemen, firemen, etc.	357,935
Packers and shippers	53,769

Total 14,846,317

This total constitutes more than 50 per cent of all who are engaged in occupations in the United States, according to the census of 1900. But of the remainder, only a small proportion have been drawn within the scope of organized labor. The trades unions are strongest in the manufacturing and mechanical pursuits. In these pursuits there are engaged, according to the census, 7,112,989. But the total of trades union membership amounts to only 35 per cent of this number. These statistics are of value as presenting in clear view the true proportions of organized labor to the whole number of workers in the country. It shows how small comparatively, organized labor is, and makes its attempt to close the door of opportunity against non-union labor seem very petty indeed. The great bulk of workers in the United States are outside the labor unions, and yet at times they suffer in large degree from their operations. A strike or a lockout, every time a railroad or steamship line is crippled by a labor dispute, every time the mines are closed because of the failure of organized labor and organized capital to reach an agreement, everybody else suffers by reason of the diminished business and the disturbance to the markets. This view of the labor problem is one that does not receive the attention that it deserves. Writers on this subject have discussed exhaustively questions of the rights of labor and the rights of capital; they have debated the problems of strikes, boycotts, arbitration and the like; but they seem to have paid very little attention to the interests of the immense army of workers who are neither in the ranks of organized labor or in the ranks of organized capital. This feature of the labor problem becomes more serious from the fact that there are signs that the next stage of this problem may be an alliance or combination between organized capital and organized labor. Engaged as they now are in deadly struggle for supremacy, it is quite within the bounds of reason that they may in time settle their dispute upon the basis of a combination which shall give to each the measure of profit that each desires and which shall throw upon the rest of the country the burden of the increased cost of living which this combination would cause. In certain places, notably in Chicago, this alliance between organized capital and labor has already been made. If this development proceeds upon national scale, it may be necessary for the rest of the people some time to organize against both organized capital and organized labor. Both should be supported in every essential right, for both are, in their sphere, great agencies for the development of thrift and enterprise. But organization must not be turned into tyranny and lawlessness, or the people will revolt. Albert Salisbury, president of the Whitewater Normal School, is a big man, physically as well as mentally. If you meet him once, you feel his strength. During the nearly forty years that he has been engaged in teaching, he has had thousands of young people under his instruction. Hundreds of these young persons who have gone out into life have testified over and over again to the powerful influence Mr. Salisbury has exercised over their moral as well as their mental development. Mr. Salisbury is addicted to the habit of telling the truth, however painful it may be to his hearer, plainly and bluntly. But after it is over, one knows that behind his rugged exterior there is a kind heart and a generous nature. Mr. Salisbury's former students are enthusiastic over his candidacy. Each Wednesday the Gazette publishes a Kicker's Column which it opens to the public to air their opinions on city affairs. Each communication should be signed so the name of the author be known but it will not be published unless desired nor the identity of the writer revealed. When any one man goes so big that his office chair does not fit him and he has the idea that he is the only person who can hold the office in question his friends had better advise him to soak his head. Some persons who are in public offices do not like to have the truth told about them and resent the interference of the public in city affairs as an infringement on their own personal rights. The Santo Domingo pact goes over to another congress there not being enough republican senators in the senate to pass the bill as the president wished it. Now is Janesville's opportunity to enter the baseball field. A team in the Wisconsin State League would mean no end of advertising for the city. Civil service reform seems to have struck the state capitol and in consequence all the holders of public offices are sucking their thumbs in anger. The Milwaukee Free Press lost the official state papership, insurance statements and all the Wisconsin State Journal gained them. Do not forget that next Tuesday the primaries are to be held. PRESS COMMENT. Chicago Chronicle: A love letter of 4,000 years ago has been discovered and it reads in the same old way. New York Commercial: Andrew Carnegie says he has not signed a note for thirty years. That is another reason why he has money for libraries while some other business men are going through the bankruptcy courts. Madison Democrat: Cornell's champion football player got the highest mark in the law examination, but it is a sad commentary on the effect of college athletics that such a circumstance is so remarkable as to warrant exploitation in the public print. Fond du Lac Commonwealth: It is stated that Field Marshal Oyama, the hero of the hour, is 70 years old. Here is a hard blow for the Osler theory, to the effect that the best years of a man's life are between twenty-five and forty. Superior Telegram: It is no wonder the car thinks he can break down the Jap finances, if he proposes to make them board 250,000 prisoners. Sometimes one star boarder seems like plenty, but a quarter of a million of them are enough to give the boarding boss a faint spell. Appleton Post: The strenuous life is exemplified in many ways. One of these is witnessed in the playing of cards for an attractive prize by a bevy of ladies ordinarily amiable and gracious, but which can hardly be said of them at such functions without straining the truth. Edgerton Reporter: Coreless apple, seedless orange, spineless cactus, spineless plums are already accomplished facts. Perhaps in time we shall have the thornless rose, the rootless pig, the buttless goat and the kickless mule. The millennium will get here if we only give it time. Chicago Chronicle: Pope Plus goes on as he began, preaching and practicing the simple life. He has been reducing display on the one hand and salaries on the other. This, as may be imagined, is not quite satisfactory to the hosts of persons employed about the Vatican. While this discouraging luxury the pontiff remains as affable and accessible as ever to friends of former days. Kansas City Journal: The red man has left an indelible mark upon the land over which he formerly roamed as proprietor. Twenty-two of the states and two of the territories have Indian names. Most of the rivers, dozen of the five great lakes, over a dozen large cities and innumerable small lakes; streams and villages are similarly cleft. The memory of the original inhabitants of the country has been highly honored in this respect. The ancient home of almost every tribe can be told by the name which the region now preserves. Whitewater Register: The most amiable paper which comes to our exchange table is the Lake Geneva News. It always gives us a jolly ten minutes to read it through on the day of its arrival. But when it speaks of the venerable and venerated Senator Cullom of Illinois, who is often likened to Abraham Lincoln in mind and character, as "Cullen the succor Senator," our merriment gives place to pain. Yet the News discusses the U. S. Senate in a thirty-five editorial. El Paso Herald: Mendota, which ornaments the state of Illinois, has an advance section of the millennium running full blast with the editors of the two local papers, both candidates for mayor and each fervently supporting the other. In their fine armor, each is supporting his man with a whole hearted enthusiasm which leads him to make invidious comparisons, taking advantage of facts in the career of the opposition candidate which he learned in strict confidence. La Crosse Tribune: To Senator Tom Morris we desire to say that in recognizing the good work he has done for La Crosse in securing the appropriation for a state normal school at this point, we are not "giving the devil his due." While "Tom" is regarded as a devil of a fellow on the North Side, he appeals to us as an approvable piece of ordinary humanity. He was a good lawyer and a good citizen before he became a good senator. He has his failings, such as chewing gum and trying to remember the "cracks" in the musical comedy dialogue, but in spite of that, or his politics, he is thoroughly reputable and carries no hint of brimstone about him. Milwaukee Journal: At a recent meeting of shoe dealers in New York city the statement was made by a leading shoe manufacturer that the women of the next generation would have larger feet than the women of this generation. He said there was a growing tendency among women to buy shoes of goodly size for their feet and that they are asking for thicker soles and lower and broader heels. The casual observer must have noticed this tendency. Here and there women cling to tight shoes, water soles, and perch themselves upon the stilt of a high and narrow heel. They do so because some one sets the style. And style, while it is the end of all controversy, is itself being modified by the canons of good sense and comfort. The short-skirted street gown and the natural waist are evidences. Men long ago rebelled against skin-tight footwear. They no longer squeeze all the blood out of their feet. Some of us remember a time when men's fashions decreed the high-heeled, tight-fitting boot that could only be removed by an instrument known as the "boot jack." This antique taste still survives with the western cowboy. Headaches and Neuralgia from Colds. Leath's Brown Quinine, the world's best Colic and Grip remedy, removes the cause. MAY ESTABLISH A SANITARIUM

LEGISLATURE MAY VOTE TO APPROPRIATE MONEY FOR THIS.

WOULD MEAN A GREAT BOOM

Place Where Consumption Could Be Treated in the Latest Scientific Manner.

It would appear as though the bills for the establishment of a tuberculosis hospital, where the afflicted of the state could receive the best of treatment at a moderate cost, will pass the present session of the legislature. The erection of a state tuberculosis sanitarium, an appropriation of $50,000 therefor and a maintenance fund of $25,000 a year was recommended to the consideration of the assembly this morning by its committee on state affairs. Assemblyman Kinney, who introduced the bill, is enthusiastic in support of its purpose in seeking to drive out of this state, so far as possible, the great white plague, and to lessen the ravages which it annually makes in the mortality list of the state. He believes that it is one of the most advanced bills before the legislature, and that its adoption will give more lasting benefit than nearly any other bill now up for consideration. The bill provides for a Wisconsin state sanitarium for the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis, especially cases in incipient stages. An advisory board will have supervision and control and a superintendent will be in immediate charge, to be chosen by this advisory board. The board will consist of five men, one a member of the state board of health, two licensed physicians, and all to be appointed by the governor. Patients in the sanitarium will be required to pay a weekly fee of $5, but all other expenses are to be borne by the state. Applications for admission can be made to the examining physicians at various points in the state to be designated by the advisory board, and upon recommendation by him shall be permitted to enter the sanitarium. A dispatch from Tomahawk, however, gives rise to the doubt that the Wisconsin Health Park association, of which Dr. Roberts, the health evangelist of this city, will be able to secure the location at that place or, in fact, continue to hold the land they already have. The contract between the Wisconsin Health Park association and the W. H. Bradley estate has expired and the conditions of the contract have not been fulfilled by the association, no improvements having been made. The Bradley company has, however, agreed to extend the time to July 1, 1905, provided the Health Park association will place a quit claim deed in escrow. Officers of the association may not take action as the time is too limited to make the required improvements. They also find local sentiment strongly opposed to having the health park located so near the city.

About St. Patrick.

His baptismal name is said to have been Suat. Little is known of him. He was born at Nemthur, Scotland, is now Dumbarion. He was born in 396 and died in 469. His father was the deacon of Calpudnius. In 411 Patrick was captured by the Picts and sold into Ireland as a slave. After six years he escaped this slavery and devoted himself to the conversion of Ireland. He prepared for the priesthood, entering upon his mission about 425. It was in the year 441 that he was consecrated a bishop. Of his writings there were his confessions and an epistle. One prominent authority says that the only thing, actually known of him is that he existed. And not a word as to his greatest deed of effectually fixing matters so the sons of the Emerald Isle cannot see snakes!—Philadelphia Record.

The Romans and the ancient Egyptians reckoned the day from midnight to midnight, while the Hebrews, Athenians and others reckoned it from sunset to sunset. Hipparchus, an astronomer who lived during the second century before Christ, reckoned the twenty-four hours from midnight to midnight.

Keep Hammering Away.

When a farmer plants his wheat in the fall he doesn't expect a harvest in a week or a month. When you give an order for a ten-story office building you don't go around to the site the following day and expect to find a complete building. The farmer knows he must wait until the seasons and the chemicals of the earth work their changes, and you know that your building must proceed by gradual stages, brick upon brick, until finished. So it is with advertising. The first insertion does not influence the public mind, nor the last, but one added to the other, every one gathering strength from those that precede it, gradually influence the public mind and bring to your bank the business you desire. A single week or a month of advertising is merely a blow or two of a cork against a bar of steel. Its effect is absolutely nothing. It is money and effort wasted, but the continuous, persistent hammering, week after week, month after month, is just as sure to start the pendulum of business swinging your way as day is to follow night.

Veteran Showman in the City.

G. W. Hall, the veteran showman and owner of valuable property here, in the city now looking after his interests. To a Herald man last night he spoke of the great growth of Tampa since his first visit many years ago, before any railroad had laid its tracks this way. Mr. Hall brought his famous shows to Tampa the first time about thirty years ago, shipping them by steamer from Cedar Keys. After giving an exhibition here he packed up his paraphernalia and drove through the country to Sanford. He is well acquainted with many old settlers. Governor Mitchell especially, having been his personal friend. Mr. Hall intends to spend every winter in Tampa.—Tampa Herald.

DOUBLE CONTEST TOMORROW NIGHT

TWO BASKETBALL GAMES IN THE HIGH SCHOOL GYMNASIUM.

BRODHEAD VS. LOCAL SECOND

First and Second Girls' Teams To Play—First Team Will Go on Trip—Examinations.

Agreeing to bear the expense of bringing a team from Brodhead to this city, the members of the second basketball team of the high school here have booked a game for tomorrow evening with the first five of the Brodhead high. A contest between the first and second girls' teams of the Janesville institution has also been arranged to be played. The first game will be called at 7:15 o'clock, this early hour being selected in order that those who wish to attend one of the social functions on the same evening will not be kept away by the athletic attraction. The boys' five will line up as follows: forwards—P. Kilmer and E. Dreyer, center—R. Crissie, guards—W. Langdon and P. Bennisson, substitute—Elsworth Strang.

The first team is composed of the following players: centers—Grace Wintoroth and Ida Green, forwards—Ruth Smith and Lucy Fox, guards—Annie Fifield and Cora Putnam; the second team: centers—Ray Heilman and Verna Bennisson, forwards—Cora Holt and Sarah MacLean, guards—Emyria MacLean and Fannie Lits.

Two Games Out of City

Tomorrow noon the first basketball team with substitutes and accompanied by Coach Bartlett will leave for Watertown to play the high school there in the evening. The contest is the return game of one played here several weeks ago, which resulted in an easy victory for the local team. Saturday the Janesville aggregation will leave Watertown for Sun Prairie. Here they will play with the high school team, which has been coached and is managed by Frank Holt of this city, an instructor in the Sun Prairie high school. This game was scheduled a week ago when Mr. Holt was in the city and takes the place of the Oconomowoc game which was arranged for the same time. The team will line up as follows: forwards—Morse and Caldwell, center—Caldow, guards—Sennett and Galbraith.

Winter Term Examinations

The examinations which terminate the work of the winter term of school were commenced this morning and will continue through tomorrow. All those who are writing are compelled to do so because they were unable to secure a standing of eighty-five in class and notebook work or were absent any considerable number of days and failed to make up the work lost. This is but the second time that this system has been applied, it being inaugurated at the beginning of the school year. Formerly, the standing had to be at least eighty or above, and many took examinations because of poor conduct, now conduct and exams have been divorced.

Twelve Weeks More

After the completion of the tests now in progress the last term of school for the year will be commenced. It is the beginning of the last twelve weeks of the year and the last twelve weeks of school for the seniors. The present examinations mean much to those who should, according to the number of years they have attended high school, graduate this June and upon the standings they receive depends largely their success of completing their course of study this year.

Meanwhile the frightened horses had caused other teams to steer clear and had collided with a telegraph pole, which relieved the wagon of part of its load of nails. The wagon was partially demolished, but the horses were not injured.

ALFALFA SUBJECT OF EXPERIMENTS

Rock County Graduates of "Short Course" to Grow Grass for Feeding Purposes.

Rock county graduates of the agricultural course of the state university, with about 600 of their mates scattered through the state will continue their series of alfalfa experiments this year. The legislature has taken so much interest in the work that it has appropriated money and publishes the results of their work in bulletina form which is sent to all the farmers of the state. The first report has just been issued under the joint authorship of Prof. R. A. Moore, A. L. Stone, and Geo. A. Oleson. The experiments were also carried on at the university farm. The bulletin in speaking of the yield of alfalfa says:

The alfalfa was left to cure two days and then scattered, out in the morning after the dew was off, and hauled to the barn in the afternoon. The second growth came on rapidly and was cut July 12, thirty-six days after first cutting. The second cutting was harvested in a similar way to the first, and the third cut on August 12, thirty-one days after second cutting.

The plots were out for the fourth time on Sept. 16. The plot that was sown with barley as a nurse crop at the same time that the other plots were sown has given five cuttings since seeding, one the season of 1903, and four in 1904, which yielded six tons of hay per acre.

Alfalfa is noted for its wonderful root development, and is said to send down its roots into the soil to the depth of twenty feet and over. To note the root development on the experiment plots, an excavation was made beside a plot of alfalfa that had been seeded the spring of 1901. The main roots were found to penetrate the soil to the depth of five feet, and the rootlets went considerably below that distance. An excavation was also made in a plot of alfalfa, the seed of which was sown the spring of 1903, and roots were found to run down to the depth of three feet.

The great root development of alfalfa enables it to withstand severe droughts and secure plant food and insure moisture several feet below the surface of the ground.

VAUDEVILLE AND RUSSIAN DRAMA

No Dearth of Entertainment for Amusement-Lovers Last Evening—The Two Theatres.

There was a fair attendance at the Fane Stock Co.'s production of the drama "In the Czar's Domain" last evening. While the drama itself is rather a crude one, it kept the interest of the audience sustained and most of the faulty parts went unnoticed. Mildred Keeler was again a favorite in the vaudeville specialties and the blackface monologue and songs by James Letton pleased. Tonight "The Buffalo Mystery" with the explosion of a real automobile on the stage, is underlined, and the "Indian's Revenge" film will be shown by the moving picture machine.

At the West Side theatre, where Salora, the picture dancer, and Surazal and Razall, and the others are entertaining and amusing the spectators nightly, there was also a good sized audience. There is no divergence from the opinion that the bill this week is an excellent one.

86 PASS THROUGH FROM PLATTEVILLE

Faculty, Students and Brass Band of Normal on Way to State Oratorical Contest.

Two special coaches, both bearing a sign on each side with word "Platteville," painted in sky blue, laid over in the city this morning for about a half hour. The cars were carrying the faculty, the brass band and a body of students from the Platteville Normal school, numbering eighty-six in all, to Stevens Point where the state normal school oratorical contest will be held tomorrow evening. The band was composed of twenty-two pieces and played several "tunes" at the St. Paul depot platform while making the stay here. The pieces were constructed on the plan of college yells and were rendered in a spirit similar to that in which a yell is given. Each of the students and members of the band wore a blue pennant badge with the P. N. S. monogram of white, a large school banner was also carried and all felt confident of the success in the competition of their representative, Will Beers. The winner of the contest at Stevens Point will represent the state in the interstate contest in Milwaukee in the first part of May.

"STRONG-ARM" MEN OPERATED HERE

Edgar Montague Held Up and Robbed of Gold Watch and Money Last Night—Suspects Caught.

Edgar Montague was given the "strong-arm" at the upper end of West Milwaukee street last evening by strangers whom he encountered and "treated" in an Academy street saloon. There were three of these visiting gentry in the barroom when Montague entered, but two of them appeared to be quarrelling with the third. The Janesville man immediately became interested in them and they in him. Presently the two left the saloon in his company. They had proceeded some distance up Milwaukee street and were having a very interesting conversation when, at a point where the street was unusually dark and no passer-by was likely to observe their actions, one suddenly stepped back, threw an arm around Montague's neck and bent the upper portion of his body backward in a very unpleasant and uncomfortable condition. Mr. Montague was rendered speechless both by surprise, and the unwonted pressure on his windpipe. While footpad No. 1 held him, No. 2 hastily ransacked his pockets, appropriating a $25 gold watch and $4 chain and money to the amount of $5.50. The exploration concluded, the struggle hold was released and the two men disappeared before Montague could sufficiently recover from his dazed condition to note in which direction they had gone.

Two hours later, having received a description of the incident and men from the victim, Officers Brown and Fanning visited the railroad yards and laid heavy hands on three men who were evidently awaiting some accommodating train to carry them far from Janesville. Their hopes of clearing the city in a hurry had evidently met with disappointment up to that time. The two stoutly protected their innocence but were escorted to the county jail where Montague identified them. In going through their pockets some $5 in money was found, but no watch could be discovered.

John Schneider of Kansas City and Joseph Martin of Moline, Ill., were brought into court this afternoon. Just before their appearance, Officer Brown found the gold watch in one of their stockings. On their plea of guilty each was sentenced to two years in prison.

JURY DISAGREED IN MILTON AUTO SUIT

And Was Discharged by Court After Five Hours' Consultation Had Proved Fruitless.

After five hours' consultation the jury in the $5,000 damage action brought by James A. Bowditch of Milton against Charles C. Clarke failed to agree on a verdict and so reported to the court late yesterday afternoon. The twelve were at once discharged and whether or not the case will be tried again remains an open question. Bowditch was run down by Clarke's automobile and sustained a broken collar-bone and other injuries. The majority of the jury, it is understood, favored the defendant.

IN LOADING CARS THEY BLOCK WALKS

North Main Street Residents Protest Against Operations of Factories Which Force Them Into Street.

When the factories and warehouses on both sides of North Main street are loading cars at the same time, pedestrians complain that they are compelled to wade out to the middle of the thoroughfare to get by. Tenants of the houses just above the Jones warehouse on the east side have complained to the authorities and this morning Marshal Constable visited the locality and conferred with some of the property owners and representatives. The owners of the Jones warehouse said that they would cut a door through the rear of the building enabling them to load there and thus keep the sidewalk on the east side of the street open.

THE MODERN GUISE OF THE SILKEN GOWN

Elaborate, indeed, is this smart gown of geranium pink taffeta, with its tiny touch of velvet and its lavish use of a real Bruges applique lace for trimming effect. The corsage has shirrings over the shoulder, this fullness being drawn into a deep emplacement of velvet, shaped like a buckle just below the bust. This tops a deep-swathed puff, at the shoulder, and the second puff is set at the back, to admit a full puff of the Bruges lace. The skirt is tucked over the hips, the fullness released above the knee, and a full flounce applied to an entire drape of lace, a center-spurred ruffle serving to conceal the joining.

Play Congresses.

A royal commission was sent to England to observe the sports of the boys in the English public schools and the plays of the people in the parks and playgrounds, says the Chautauquan. This commission spent several weeks in visiting schools and playgrounds. On its return to Germany it published a report in which the English games and English encouragement of games were spoken of in the highest terms, and a number were recommended for introduction into Germany. Through the assistance of the emperor and the minister of education, this report was officially circulated throughout the empire, and the play movement was launched on a high tide of official approval. Within four years after this, there is a record of more than four hundred playgrounds being established. Play leaders, who were required to have accurate knowledge of the growth of the heart and other vital organs and to be trained educators, were placed in charge. These leaders are on duty on the Wednesday and Saturday half holidays, and after school every day.

A ROSE OF NORMANDY

By WILLIAM R. A. WILSON

"There were other rewards given him which he has forgotten to mention," said Colbert, in a hesitating tone. "It is not usual for foreign officers to occupy the responsible positions in the royal forces that he has held. That of itself ought to be distinction enough. Your majesty has just asked me for my humble opinion as to the brave capitaine's commission. Like all of my opinions, it would be worthless, but I should not recommend the signing of it."

Under the cloak of humility, the wily minister threw such a tone of meaning that Louis instantly demanded his reason.

"A thoroughly selfish one, sire, but natural in one devoted to your interests. Have we, too, many officers whom you can trust to do this brave Italian? Would you not, in your anxiety to please the Sieur de la Salle, be robbing yourself? Could not so gallant a soldier best serve the king by remaining in France? War is again imminent, and it will not be long ere the Capitaine Tont will have another chance to perform other gallant deeds and reap rich rewards."

The king seemed struck by the argument advanced; the more so as it appealed to the selfish side of his nature. He bit the end of his pen a moment, then throwing it down before him on the table and pushing the commission to one side, he turned to Tont. "True words indeed," he said, "and ones that but echo my own thoughts. We have need of strong arms, clear heads, and loyal hearts in our service. We think, on the whole, Sieur de la Salle, that you can find a fit lieutenant for your enterprise without taking from us our true and tried officers."

La Salle was about to speak when Tont, advancing a step and with a meaning glance at Colbert, thus addressed the king:

"He indeed, sire, speaks truly when he says that there were other rewards given me which I forbore, not forget, to mention; rewards received from the hands of an ambitious and unscrupulous minister rather than those of a grateful and generous king."

"How now, Sir Capitaine!" angrily interrupted Louis. "We like not to hear such words concerning our chief officer of state."

"Pardon, sire," replied Tont. "Soft words are not always true ones. The rewards referred to I shall enumerate in a moment if you have the patience. My father brought me here a child. He found a great king reigning over a mighty kingdom with an empty treasury. He devised a plan for the filling of that treasury. You would not permit him to carry it to conclusion; you intrusted it to the unskilled, ignorant hand of your minister; it failed. He studied the plan more carefully and saw the merit of my father's minute advice, hitherto unheeded. He tried again; he succeeded; and now his successor sits here the second man in France, while my father, to whom all was due—"

"Was amply rewarded," interposed Louis, "and went back to Italy to live in well-deserved comfort his remaining days, dying in peace shortly after his return."

"No," bitterly explained Tont with a menacing glance at Colbert. "That was probably what his lying tongue told you. Ah! Sire, the life of a loyal soldier was ever mine. Through the years of rough campaigning, through slope and sordid camp and fleet, I performed those deeds that you have graciously enumerated, and returned home to find the father who ought to have been loaded down with honors awaiting the arrival of his soldier."

Tired Nervous

When you feel languid, tired, nervous and irritable, your vitality is low—your supply of nerve energy exhausted, and your system running down for lack of power.

The organs of the body are working poorly, or not at all, and you are not getting the nourishment needed. This soon impoverishes the blood and instead of throwing off the impurities, distributes it all through the body. This brings disease and misery.

Feed the nerves with Dr. Miles' Nerve, a nerve food, a nerve medicine, that nourishes and strengthens the nerves; and see how quickly you will get strong and vigorous.

"My wife suffered with nervousness previous to a recent attack of typhoid fever, but after her recovery from the fever, she was much worse, and could hardly control herself, being exceedingly nervous when the least excited. She was very restless at night, and she also suffered much from nervous headache. Dr. Miles' Nerve was recommended by a friend. After the first three doses she had a good night's rest, and at the end of the first week's treatment, she was wonderfully improved. Continued use of Nerve has completed her entire cure."

son fresh from a hundred battles—

Tont stopped an instant as though to gain control of himself. The king was listening earnestly. Colbert sat with a disdainful smile upon his lips, and a venomous look in his eyes.

"To find the father whose skill in finance and gratitude to the monarch that received him, an exile, had given you the means of conducting a glorious war and gathering fresh laurels that can never fade; that father who deserved as his reward the half of your kingdom and a place at your right hand; who taught me fear God and honor the king as the first whole sentence my young lips framed;—to find, I say, that he had been housed in the Bastille since my departure; that he had died alone and in prison; died a victim of the cruelty and neglect of his gaolers. Tell me, sire, is that the way to reward a faithful servant? For my own reward, paltry though it was, I do not complain; but now when I come to you loaded down with this gross injustice and wrong and beg a favor such as the present, am I to be refused? Nay, this is a favor I now beg, ask, yes, this is more than that, demand of you. It is not the days of fighting, the nights of vigilance, the dangers met and passed, the cords that bound these wrists in captivity, the loss of this hand,"—here Tont struck the table with his gloved hand, causing a sharp metallic sound,—and the shame at having chosen an ungrateful king to serve that cries to you now from the mouth of a humble capitaine,—it is more! It is a voice higher than the voice of kings, louder than the justice calling to a great monarch, one who believes himself to be just, whose kingly nature cannot afford to be ungrateful to even the meanest of his subjects."

King though he was, Louis delighted in a brave man, even though he were opposed to him. The better nature of the monarch was stirred at such evident injustice at his hands, so, instead of being angry at Tont for his plain speaking (strange speech indeed for royal ears to hear), he turned sharply toward Colbert.

"Your explanation," he demanded curtly.

"You will recollect, sire, that after the failure of the elder Tont's plan, you were very much enraged, feeling that he had deceived you, and desired his name placed on the list of those liable to have lettres de cachet issued against them," said Colbert in an insinuating tone, as though fearful of showing the king the fault of his own doing. "In some way his name was not erased, and in due process of time you yourself signed one for him; he was apprehended, confined in the Bastille, and died, not by cruelty of those who cared for him as his son suggests, but by his own hand. Some one else must have told you the story about his retirement to Italy. I have never heard it said."

The king looked at his oily-tongued servant long and suspiciously, but such was the confidence placed in him and so great was his influence over the royal mind that Louis finally withdrew his gaze, and muttering, "I must have signed it without looking at the name," he seized a pen, and taking up the unsigned commission before him, interpolated a few words and hurriedly wrote the word "Louis," then handed it to Tont, saying:

"Shame on an ungrateful king! Accept this commission as a partial return for your own wrongs. In it I have added several privileges additional. As to the injustice to your father, believe me, Louis, who loves to be called

A HAND WAS LAID UPON HIS SHOULDER.

"the just," will watch over your endeavors in the new world and reward tenfold, making up to the son in some measure the wrong suffered by the father at my hands. Go, and may success be yours, and let it be known that he who opposes you strikes at the king."

Tont received his commission in silence, and after bending and kissing the royal hand, left the room. La Salle at a signal from Colbert remained. Louis buried himself in a lengthy document. Colbert called to him his secretary. He was the Comte de Miron. White with rage, the minister whispered or rather hissed into his ear: "Did you see that man who just now left the cabinet?" The Comte nodded. "Kill me him within 24 hours!" The Comte glided out by another door.

than 20 people remained, chiefly gathered about mademoiselle at the farther end of the room. He joined them, and listened as mademoiselle related the incident of Renee and the accident to her chair. During the recital he worked his way into a position near her elbow. When she had finished he asked in a low tone and with forced indifference, "and who might the fortunate cavalier be who came so happily to her aid?"

"She did not speak his name." Then in tones so low that only Tont could hear, she added, with a spiteful gleam in her eye, "but she recognized him. It was the great explorer," then turned her head away. Tont was dazed. There was only one great explorer, and how she could have confounded himself with La Salle he knew not. Smiling with hurt pride and disappointment, he looked across to the other side of the group and saw the lowering face and hate-filled eyes of the Comte de Miron, and in that glance he recognized his antagonist of the day before.

"A contemptible dog that," he said, looking steadily at him, "who would subject a lady to such indignity and alarm; worthy only to be spat upon."

The topic of conversation changed, and Tont a prey to a mixture of emotions, wishing to be alone, sauntered slowly away from the circle where he had been. A moment later a hand was laid upon his shoulder and a voice deep with passion exclaimed:

"You may have an opportunity to spit upon the contemptible cur you mention, sir capitaine, or be appropriately spitted by my sword," and at the same instant a gauntlet was thrown at his feet.

Tont looked up, and seeing it was the Comte de Miron who spoke, carefully brushed away at the spot on his shoulder where his fingers had rested and replied contemptuously:

"You know the recent edict of the king against duelling; you are safe in your offer."

The Comte flushed. "Drive in a coach to-morrow at noon along the Chemin de Clamar; I shall meet you coming from the other direction. Our drivers can be instructed to collide opposite Mont Parnasse; we can leap forth, and with the collision as a pretext we can fight as though it were a sudden matter. No seconds need be present, so that none may know."

"I accept," exclaimed Tont, picking up the glove.

"With swords?" asked the Comte.

"With swords."

"A l'outrance?"

"To the very death."

Battling Nelson.

The Dane May Defeat Jimmy Britt—Young Corbett's Downfall.

Battling Nelson, who so decisively defeated Young Corbett for the second time, will soon have another chance to meet Jimmy Britt for the championship. The Dane will meet Britt in San Francisco in a twenty round bout.

The recent Nelson-Corbett contest will mark an interesting epoch in prize ring history, for it meant the passing away of one of the greatest fighters of his weight in the world and brought forth another youngster who proved conclusively that he was a fit successor to the one time invincible Corbett.

Corbett, like many other great fighters who preceded him, was the victim of the pace that kills. When in his prime he believed that he would never see the day that he would fall a victim to any man of his weight in the world. In defeating Terry McGovern for the featherweight championship he disposed of his most dangerous opponent, and he felt that no younger could appear that could relieve him of his laurels.

It is possible that Corbett's idea was correct and that he would still be the featherweight champion had he not deserted the straight path which carried him through youth and built up the strong system that made him the physical marvel that he was when he first came east.

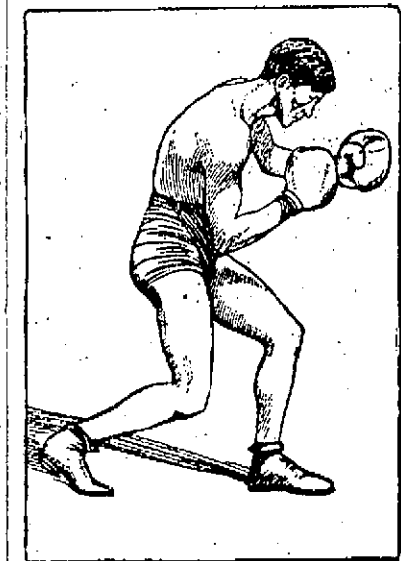

For more than two years Corbett partook of the sporting life that is sure to corrode its victim sooner or later. The result was that Corbett's system was undermined, and when the time came for him to battle in the ring after his long rest he found that he was no longer able to withstand the terrific wallop that a few years ago only made him fight harder and faster.

There was only one thing that remained through Corbett's downfall, and that was his courage. In his fight with Nelson he fought to the last ditch, and when the contest was stopped by his seconds he was practically knocked out.

Nelson is in many ways the same kind of fighter that Corbett and McGovern were in their prime. He is just now at his best, and the general impression prevails that he can defeat any man in his class and that it will be some time before he is defeated provided he takes proper care of himself in the meantime.

Nelson's next battle will be with Britt, a great fighter, but the Californian's style is very different from that of the Dane, and there are many who look for the champion's defeat when he tackles Corbett's conqueror.

In their last battle Nelson fought Britt all around the ring, and the latter's cleverness and his ability to keep out of the Dane's reach saved him. He went the limit and received the decision on points by a narrow margin.

It is doubtful if Britt would gain the decision over Nelson in another battle, and there is considerable doubt as to whether the contest would go the limit. Nelson is pretty well on to Britt's style, and his aggressive manner would surely force Britt to show his hand; then there would be a lively battle to the end, Nelson being a candidate of winning the championship when he meets Britt.

Build Up Your System!

Neglect and carelessness are the general causes of all disease.

People never become dangerously sick until after nature has given them many warnings.

The great mistake is not paying attention to these warnings.

When you feel "run down," "used up," "nervous," tired most of the time—it means that something is wrong and nature is warning you.

You need more nerve force to build up your system.

Strengthen your nerves, increase your nerve force and your health will take care of itself.

Science with its unerring methods of research has proved that the various organs and tissues of the body continue in health and perform their work properly as long as their nerve supply retains its vigor and strength.

But if the nerves degenerate or lose power from poor nourishment or any other cause, the entire physiological mechanism of the body is thrown out of gear and we have as a result some "run-down" condition or disease.

The heart, the stomach, the liver, all have their great nerve centres which supply them with the power to work properly. When these nerve centres are weakened these important organs cannot act properly.

"For five years I was in very bad health and the doctors and medicine failed to help me, until I became seriously ill, and then I began using Paine's Celery Compound. I derived great benefit from it at once. I commenced to gain in weight and gained thirty-nine pounds in three months. It gave me great strength and built up my entire system. I have recommended it to some of my friends and it did them a great deal of good."—O. M. Pearson, Seattle, Wash.

Prof. Phelps, of Dartmouth University, was the first physician to enunciate the principle which today is recognized as one of the foundations of the science of medicine,—the great enlightening truth, that the nerve system rules all the body's health.

The nerves must have food to keep up their strength. Their food is not the same food that we usually know.

He sought and found the food that builds up and restores the nerves—his celery formula, which has become famous as Paine's Celery Compound—the celebrated nerve vitalizer and tonic.

Paine's Celery Compound is giving new nerve force to thousands every day by feeding and restoring the nerves to their full strength. It never fails to build up a run down system to full, ruddy health.

Two days' treatment proves its marvelous power. It braces you up. You feel better at once.

Sick headache, palpitation, dizziness, and heartburn are usually relieved by a single dose of Paine's Celery Compound.

Remember this,—Paine's Celery Compound is the prescription of one of the most famous physicians this country has ever known, and all reputable Druggists sell and recommend it.

MAKE AN APPEAL TO THE PUBLIC

Women's Clubs of Whitewater Urged the Election of Professor Salisbury.

The women of Wisconsin are vitally interested in the welfare of our schools. This spring they may show that interest by exercising their privilege of voting for a state superintendent of public instruction. No woman should fail to do her duty at this time. The men and women who will make the Wisconsin of the future are now in training in our schools. Can anything be more important than to prepare them properly for the tasks awaiting them, or more sensible than to see to it that the right man is put at the head of our school system? The multitude of women who are doing nobly in their own homes for their own children must also mother the children of the state. The women who have no little ones should adopt the children in our schools in their own town. They should acquaint themselves with the educational needs of the state and do their part to put in places of power men who are capable of solving our educational problems.

The high position of state superintendent should be entrusted only to a man of large experience, high ability, and indefatigable purpose. When President Albert Salisbury of the Whitewater State Normal school, consented to be a candidate for this position those who knew him best felt that here was a man eminently fitted for the place. President Salisbury's keen intellectual ability, his absolute integrity, his years of experience as an educator in the state, his knowledge of our rural school and other problems, his skill in handling educational matters, and ability to bring about results are the elements which make him seem the best possible candidate for this important position.

We call your attention to his candidacy, and urge you to do what you can in his behalf.

THE EIGHT FEDERATED WOMEN'S CLUBS OF WHITEWATER BY CORNELIA E. ROGERS, President.

WOMEN CAN VOTE AT ELECTIONS

That is, They Can Cast Their Ballot for School Superintendents.

Janesville's feminine suffragists, as well as women who are not a part of this movement, will be given an opportunity to exercise the sacred right of voting, at the election of state superintendent of schools, April 4, provided they can convince the election officials that, under the law, they are qualified for this privilege. Outside of the city they also will have the opportunity to vote for county superintendent of schools, although the selection of judges and city officers will not be entrusted to their care. There will be no registration for this election, the women will not have to go to the polls twice, although on election day, in the words of the statute, they must satisfy the election officials of their qualifications. This means that they must give sufficient proof that they are citizens of Wisconsin, 21 years old or upwards, by special dispensation they will not be required to specify how much "upwards", that they are not paupers, not under guardianship (married women are not presumed necessarily to be under guardianship), that they are not "non compos mentis", that they have never been convicted of treason or felony, or if they have, have been restored to civil rights, that they have resided within the state for one year, and in the election precinct for ten days.

ACTORS APPEARED BEFORE THE EAGLES

And Participated in a Fine Program Which Followed Banquet at Lodge Rooms Last Night.

Members of the Janesville Aerie of Eagles enjoyed a banquet and social session at their South Main street hall last evening. Professional entertainers recruited from the Fane Stock Co. and the vaudeville talent at the West Side theatre appeared in a lengthy program of vocal and instrumental music which was thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

SEVENTEEN YEAR LOCUSTS ARE DUE

This is the Year That It is Claimed They Will Make Their Appearance.

There have been reports in the papers for several years that the seventeen-year locust was due at those times, but they would all seem to be incorrect so far as this section is concerned. The locusts were here in 1888. At that time one citizen took a couple of them and put them in a bottle of alcohol which he sealed up and has kept ever since. The locusts were here that summer by the millions. They have made their appearance every seventeen years in the past and they will no doubt keep up their record and report for duty next summer. It is a strange provision of nature that it takes so long for these insects to complete the circuit of their existence, but it is said to be a fact demonstrated by past observation.

Fresh Water Fish in Germany.

In many districts of Germany, where sea fish is still a luxury comparatively seldom seen, the coarse fish of inland waters are an important article of food. In North Germany a carp with sauce of white wine or beer is popular and highly esteemed as a Christmas dish. It has been estimated that in Berlin alone 5,000 tons of carp were sold last December for the Christmas day dinner.

HOMESTEAD PLAN FOR RAILWAY MEN

Frisco System to Test French Plan of Selling Lands on Lines to Employees.

Adopting a French plan for amalgamating the interests of the corporation and its employees, B. F. Yoakum, chairman of the executive committee of the Frisco system, has declared that a homestead will be provided for every employee of the system, from vice-president down to the section hand. By this method Mr. Yoakum hopes to establish an "entente cordiale" among the employees and a closer affiliation with the corporate interests than on any other road in America. One of the things which it is expected to accomplish is the elimination of strikes.

A careful survey of the situation in France was made by Mr. Yoakum, and he studied the plans which he found to be working satisfactorily on several of the roads in that country. So pleased was he with what he saw that he decided to introduce the same plan in this country, and the first experiments are to be made on the Texas line. The details have been explained to the men, it is declared, that already a majority of them have signified their intention of taking advantage of it.

How Plan is Carried Out. The idea is to sell to every employee a parcel of five or ten acres of land tributary to the railroad, supplied with water, and at a fair valuation, to be paid for in ten years, deferred payments bearing a low rate of interest. One of the provisions in the contract is that in case an employee who has availed himself of this privilege dies, or is killed in an accident while in the service of the company, the land is to be deeded in fee to his wife or family, without further obligation on their part. This insures a home for the employee's family, upon land which can easily be made productive.

It is provided, further, that should an employee discontinue his service with the company from any cause whatever, before the completion of his contract, all the money paid in by him will be returned, together with interest at the rate per annum that has been charged against him.

It was found that in France, where similar plans have been in effect for a number of years, it had resulted beneficially to the company as well as to its employees. High-grade men, who make good citizens in any community, were attracted to the service of the company, and it tended to establish a permanency in their relationship to the company, which could not be shaken easily by labor agitation. Should the plan prove as satisfactory in this country it will probably, in the course of time, be extended over the entire Frisco system.

Emperor William dined with United States Ambassador and Mrs. Tower at their residence in Berlin. Others at the dinner were Chancellor Von Bulow, General Count Moltke, Admiral Von Tirpitz, the American minister and Mrs. Townsend from Brussels and Consul General and Mrs. Mason.

Senor Ramon Corral. Ramon Corral, who a few weeks ago was sworn in as vice president of Mexico, is the first man to serve in that capacity in the Mexican republic. It is generally expected that when President Diaz dies or retires, Senor Corral will be his successor. He is fifty years of age, has been reporter, editor, soldier, lawyer, member of legislature, governor and cabinet member. The Mexican vice president is a good deal of a Yankee, has been much in the United States, is educating as many of his nine children as are of school age. ## MANY BEEF EXPERTS ARE ON THEIR WAY TO EUROPE

Flee From This Country To Avoid Testifying Against The Meat Trust At The Hearing.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Chicago, March 16.—Avoiding the police of St. Johns, New Brunswick, four of the chief witnesses wanted in connection with the beef trust investigation, scheduled to open Monday, sailed from that port Wednesday for England for the purpose, it is declared, of avoiding the necessity of appearing before the federal grand jury.

United States Marshal Ames admits that he has four subpoenas for important witnesses that he has not yet been able to serve, notwithstanding a strict search on the part of the deputies of his office, and it is thought that the officials who left St. Johns are the ones wanted.

The men said to have thus fled from the necessity of giving testimony concerning the alleged violations of Judge Grosscup's injunction are E. A. Allen, who was formerly secretary of the Hammond Packing company, which was absorbed by the National Packing company; James Brennan, manager of the canning department of Swift & Co.; G. S. Roberts, salesman of the National Packing company, and F. A. Spink, traffic manager of the same concern.

Leave City Separately. The men are said to have left Chicago separately several days ago, and by appointment met in Detroit. The federal authorities on the border had been notified to look out for them, and, representing themselves as tourists, it is said, the men crossed to Windsor. In St. Johns they purchased tickets for England. It is understood they were notified by officials

OPERATORS OF MINES THREATEN TO SHUT DOWN

Indiana Association Notifies Workers of Consequence of Violation of Contract on Part of the Men.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 16.—The Indiana Bituminous Operators' association has adopted a resolution that in event of violation of contract which results in a shutdown, the check-off system, whereby the operators check off dues of miners for the union, will be suspended until such violation or shutdown is abandoned. The president of the Operators' association is authorized when a mine is shut down by the miners to shut down all mines in the state.

The resolution was sent to District 11, United Mineworkers of America, in annual convention here. The reply in substance is that the agreement entered into a year ago holds good another year; that the miners' proposal to carry out their part and that any violation not rectified must come from the operators. The joint board can take up any differences, but the miners do not propose to vary from the Terre Haute agreement. The enforcement of the resolution would tie up all the bituminous mines in the state.

MAD STEERS GO ON A RAMPAGE

Alton, Ill., Terrified by Animals That Have Been Stampeded.

Alton, Ill., March 16.—For two days Alton was in the throes of a maddened steer stampede through the business streets. Harry Holiday, a boy, who endeavored to deliver the steers to a butcher, was badly injured in the melee. A drove of seven steers took fright and ran at large through the town. Four finally were captured, but three continued to run through the streets, doing damage to property. Pursuers only served to render them more terror-stricken. Several citizens have had narrow escapes from injury. The steers fled to the outskirts and men with rifles were sent to shoot them down.

TRUST LEAVES THE OIL FIELD

Prairie Company Takes Up Lines in the Chanute District.

Humboldt, Kan., March 16.—An order has been received from the Prairie Oil company to take up all pipe line laterals off the Standard six-inch main west of the Santa Fe tracks between Humboldt and Chanute except one. This is a practical abandonment of the field and means withdrawal of a market from all companies in the Chanute field whose oil tests thirty degrees. Less than one-third of the companies can market oil.

MAKES BIG DEAL IN PIG IRON

Bessemer Association Arranges for the Sale of More Than 100,000 Tons.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 16.—A transaction of immense importance is just about to be put through by the Bessemer Pig Iron association. The sale of more than 100,000 tons of Bessemer pig iron is about to be closed, entailing delivery through the remainder of this year and the first half of 1906. The purchaser is one of the steel companies of Pittsburgh, and it is not the Carnegie Steel company nor any of the subsidiary companies of the United States Steel company. It is said the price to be paid is $15.50 a ton in the valleys.

Bankrupt Fights Federal Officer. Jacksonville, Ill., March 16.—Jacob Cohen, wholesale dealer in scrap iron, reputed to be worth $100,000, was of the National Packing company that they were being watched, and they started by steamer for Halifax, from which point they expect to sail for England, unless stopped by the federal authorities with the subpoenas.

Before leaving St. Johns they telegraphed for information concerning the connections from England with continental steamers, and it is believed that they intend to take passage for either France or Germany.

Talks of Investigation. Allen is accompanied by his wife and child, and at St. Johns made no secret of his presence, and talked freely of the coming investigation. The others, however, were inclined to stay close to their hotel, and refused to be interviewed.

They were all plentifully supplied with funds and spent money freely. Reports were received from Marshal Ames' office that several other witnesses, who have been subpoenaed in connection with the investigation had also left the city and were not to be found. All the information that could be learned concerning them was that they had gone on "vacation trips."

The names of these packing company officials could not be learned. It is understood, however, that Irving A. Vant, assistant treasurer of Swift & Co., is one of them.

An investigation has begun from the office of United States Marshal Ames, and it is said that in cases where the persons summoned have left the city steps will be taken at once to bring them to Chicago, where they will be compelled to face charges of contempt of court.

ANNEX SAN DOMINGO.

Senator Heyburn Declares That is the Island's Destiny.

Washington, March 16.—In the course of the senate debate on the Dominican treaty Senator Heyburn of Idaho made an extended argument in favor of the annexation of San Domingo. He declared the destiny of this, as well as other islands, was to be under the control of the United States.

Senator Teller introduced a resolution of inquiry, asking the State Department for information concerning relations with the Dominican government between July 1, 1904, and March 1, 1905. Senator Cullum objected to the reading of the resolution, declaring the matter pertained to executive session.

"The senator cannot take me off the floor," said Senator Teller, warmly. He insisted that his resolution be read. The resolution directed the state department to send to the senate copies of instructions given to Commander Dillingham and Minister Dawson regarding Dominican affairs, and all communications relating to the treaty. The senate then went into executive session until adjournment.

BANDS OF STEEL.

Carnegie Favors Pan-American Railway System, as Against Navy.

Washington, March 16.—A dinner was given in honor of the members of the permanent Pan-American Railway committee Wednesday night by ex-Senator Henry C. Davis, the chairman. The guests included Ministers Leger of Hayti, Ferreira of Brazil, Calvo of Costa Rica, Corea of Nicaragua, Calderon of Peru, Walker Martinez of Chile, Diaz of Uruguay and Calderon of Bolivia. Senator Elkins and Charles M. Pepper.

Andrew Carnegie sent a letter, saying: "I beg to assure you of my unflinching interest in helping you all together by bands of steel as brothers. If the United States gave the $100,000,000 toward the railway now spent yearly on the navy, conditioned upon the South American republics pledging their credit for an equal sum, we should do more to eliminate the element of danger, which at best is small, than with all the warships we can build."

Cost of Impatience.

In the impatient mood we are apt to spend far more money than is required in the doing of our work; and this excess is lost, says the Indianapolis News. We cannot estimate the value of the power thus misplaced. When the impatient mood becomes the habit of a life-time you can understand that failure, and perhaps loss of health and energy, are inevitable.

JAP RESENTS THE STORY OF FRAUD

Little Wrestler from the Sunrise Kingdom Much Aggrieved Over Reports.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., March 16.—"I feel bad that they say Jiu-jitsu is a fake. My people do not swindle. The right Jiu-jitsu never is learned by letters, what you call correspondence schools. I will like to try once more to show our art with Mr. Miller."

This is how Wahi-ita, the native Japanese, Jiu-jitsu expert, feels after his apparent defeat by Charles J. Miller of La Crosse, the freshman football player and University of Wisconsin strong man; and the subsequent announcement by Prof. J. C. Elsom and Instructor Emmett D. Angell that the much-exploited Japanese system of wrestling is a fake. The Jap is a particularly agreeable chap and appears to feel deeply the situation. He says he took the usual bath in the school in Japan where he learned the system, that he would never use his art to inflict pain unless necessary or under circumstances where the breaking of bones or crippling of the antagonist cannot be prevented. He expresses the opinion that the Wisconsin gymnasium officials were cheated by a correspondence school and wanted to discredit the system. He admits that this may have been their desire out of honest motives, but insists that they must have been swindled, for he says it is impossible to learn the Japanese art through the mails; the personal instruction of a teacher being necessary. Wahi-ita's friends have ready a purse of $50 for any American student who will throw their recently arrived fellow countryman, but a contest for money is of course impossible with the sanction of the university authorities. Wahi-ita says he could not practice his powers on Freshman Miller and it would be poor policy to have done so the first time he appeared in the Wisconsin gymnasium. He desires an opportunity to wrestle with Miller or to give instruction in the genuine Jiu-jitsu to Dr. Elsom or Mr. Angell, and says he can prove to their satisfaction that his system is far from being a humbug or a fake.

Reports were received from Marshal Ames' office that several other witnesses, who have been subpoenaed in connection with the investigation had also left the city and were not to be found. All the information that could be learned concerning them was that they had gone on "vacation trips."

The names of these packing company officials could not be learned. It is understood, however, that Irving A. Vant, assistant treasurer of Swift & Co., is one of them.

An investigation has begun from the office of United States Marshal Ames, and it is said that in cases where the persons summoned have left the city steps will be taken at once to bring them to Chicago, where they will be compelled to face charges of contempt of court.

POISON IN CIGAR SAID TO HAVE CAUSED DEATH

Girl With Whom He Quarreled Is Alleged to Have Placed Opium in Smoker, Which She Gave Him.

Flint, Mich., March 16.—Developments in the mystery surrounding the sudden death of William S. Goodspeed, the 19-year-old employee of the Flint Wagon Works, point to murder. Prosecuting Attorney Horace B. Martin has discovered a clue that leads him to believe that Goodspeed's death was caused by opium placed in a cigar given him by a young woman with whom he had quarreled.

At the coroner's inquest Dr. J. C. McGregor, who assisted in the post mortem examination of Goodspeed's body, testified that, in his opinion, death was due to opium poisoning. Dr. Samuel B. Given, into whose office Goodspeed was taken when stricken with the fatal illness, stated that the young man just before he died said he believed his condition was the result of smoking a cigar he had partly consumed and then thrown away.

PAPER TRUST IS IN TROUBLE

Independent's Cut in Price Forces Combination to Reduce Figures.

Appleton, Wis., March 16.—Following a cut in prices of print paper made by an independent representative at Fond du Lac, there has been a 10 per cent cut in the price of print paper by the Plover Paper company and the Wisconsin River Pulp and Paper company, both owned by George Whiting of the General Paper company. It is understood that the demand for print paper is less than the supply.
